The snow white, the hunters, the disappeared, the noisy, the gigantic... What a very personal way to classify animals. Adrienne's work is as much a scientific research than a titanic process of colouring. Proof of this is that the illustrator looked at the case of her 216 pages encyclopedia for a year-long. Patchwork of tints or gradations, she stages with humour, and in her own way, many and varied animals in their natural environment. A beautiful piece of work that reminds one of the encyclopaedias of yesteryear, but in a much more funny way...
